

All user data accessed by HangoutNow (the Application) is not transmitted from the device or otherwise used by any service, corporation, or other application except user data automatically collected by device application framework. No information, including usage information, personally identifiable information, or confidential user data, excluding information collected automatically by Google services, Xamarin, or Android, is collected by the Application and sent to the publisher, developer, or third-party. No effort has been made by the developer to collect any user data. Personal information accessed by the Application is only used inside the Application for critical functions while the Application is in use. No data is collected by the developer for analytics or advertising purposes excluding data automatically collected by the device pertaining to application usage. For questions on this policy, contact help.seventeenacres@gmail.com.